

MESSIAH' TO BE BROADCAST
DECEMBER 16

SPECIAL XMAS PROGRAM ON
THE AIR THROUGH STA-TION WFBN

CUTCHAN IS DIRECTOR

University Choir and Special Singers
To Render Beautiful Christmas Number for "Listeners In"

The Messiah given annually at De-Paul University in the Bowman Memorial Building will be broadcast for the first time through WFBN, Indianapolis, December 16 at 3:45 o'- clock.

This best known and most popular of oratorios was started on DePaul campus by Dean Robert G. McCutcheon seventeen years ago, and this year will be its twenty-first presentation on this campus. Noted celebrities are chosen for the leading roles, and the chorus is made up of DePaul students of which two-thirds is carried over from year to year.

This musical presentation has not been given as a means of raising money, but has come spontaneously as a seasonal worship, with no charges.
The McCutcheon will go to Chicago next week and make his choice of leading roles, who will be announced shortly afterwards.
The program is used in order to immediately the large audiences,
of whom come hundreds of every year to hear this unusual work, which has reached performance under the direction of Dean McCutcheon.

Heavy Cars Need
Better Highways

TRUCKS AND BUSES RUN UP
ROAD EXPENSE; MUST BUILD
FOR THEM.

Increasing use of streets and rural highways by heavy trucks and buses is bringing about a change in highway construction.

Efforts not to curtail the efficiency of trucks and buses through limitations, highway builders are forced to construct more substantial pavements.

The roadway of today is as important to commerce as steel rails.
Travel and motor trucking are no longer spread that road pavements can no longer be designed without carefully considering commercial traffic, in so far as pavement strength is concerned. By so doing, passenger cars are more assured of bump-less travel, and heavy upkeep attendant with inferior roads and massive vehicles is avoided.

Public need and demand for low priced transportation has naturally brought about the development of large trucks and buses. Light trucks for quick delivery of course predominate but in transferring bulky goods,
large trucks are necessary to bring down the cost. Buses, too, have grown in size in order to keep pace with the well founded need for flexible transportation. Obviously substantial pavements must be built to bring the greatest benefit to the public.

Town and city streets, in mud road
days, were designed for slow moving traffic with loads rarely more than one or two tons. Today most trucks weigh that much without load. A Cook county, Illinois, survey reveals that 54 per cent of the five to seven and a half ton capacity are loaded to impose a burden on the road. Horse drawn wagons because of their slow movement place little additional burden on the road while under way.
On the other hand, traveling truck-neck speeds in comparison of the road surface blows that be from two to ten times as much as the actual or "deadweight"
is divided among the four or six wheels.

It means that pavements must not only be of substantial design but that they must be smooth. Tests have shown that even a quarter inch of appreciable increases the blow on the pavement. Modern rigid pavements are laid with no more than a quarter inch variation in ten feet, where states achieve even less of variation.

Tests conducted by the Bureau of Roads and the Illinois Highway Department show that the pavement base must be designed to carry the expected load, and that top finishes add little if any structural strength or cushioning ability to the base.

Engineers advocate that residential streets carrying local traffic be designed to easily assume a load of four tons per rear wheel; business or other streets carrying heavy traffic, five tons; streets devoted entirely to the heavy traffic, six tons. Highway engineers urge, in keeping with state load limitations, that rural pavements be built easily carry four ton wheel-loads. First class rigid rural pavements are capable of carrying such loads the year around. Less stable road surfaces, weakened by rains and thaws, gradually break down even under this reasonable load limit, oftentimes requiring excessive repairs and almost complete prohibition of heavy hauling.

A REAL MOTTO

VALPARAISO, Nov. 27 (UP)—"In Peace as in War, we serve," is the motto of the Charles Pratt Post of the American Legion. The latest of the many activities of the local legion post in its effort to be a benefit to the community is to be the establishment of two ice-skating ponds for the youngsters.

The ponds are to be located in the north and east sections of the city.
Two property owners have donated the land and volunteers will assist in the building of the dams.

WITNESS IN MURDER CASE
QUESTIONED

MUCH SOUGHT GEORGE McMANUS
SURRENDERS TO GOTH-
AM AUTHORITIES.

(BULLETIN)

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (UP)—The much sought George McManus, the honest gambler who is believed to know some of the details of what happened just before Arnold Rothstein was shot, surrendered today and was taken to the District Attorney's office
for questioning.

McManus has been sought as one of the men present in room 349 of the Park Central Hotel here when Rothstein was shot. His overcoat was found in the room when police started investigating the murder.

McManus was known to be one of the men who gambled most frequently with Rothstein and on the night of the big stud poker game at Jimmy Meehan's apartment, McManus and Rothstein were the big losers—Mc-Manus to the extent of $80,000 in cash
Rothstein $300,000 in "I. O. U.'s."

McManus' surrender this morning comes on the twenty-third day of the investigation into Rothstein's slaying.
He had been the most sought after person in the investigation.

HOOVER GETS
BIG WELCOME
IN HONDURAS

PRESIDENT-ELECT OF U. S. MAKES
FIRST LATIN AMERICAN
STOP.

PROCEEDS TOWARD CORINTO

Herbert Hoover In Address Monday
Expresses Desire For Deeper
Friendship in Western Hemisphere

ABOARD U. S. S. MARYLAND,
Nov. 27 (UP)—President-elect Herbert Hoover today reached the third country he will visit on his good will tour of Latin America.

The battleship Maryland anchored about two miles off Corinto, on the west coast of Nicaragua, at 7 a. m.
(8 a. m. EST.).

ABOARD THE U. S. S. MARY-LAND, OFF LA UNION, Salvador,
Nov. 27 (UP)—President-elect Herbert Hoover and his party were on board the Maryland at 1:30 a. m. and the battleship made ready to leave shortly afterward.

Contrary to earlier reports that rough weather and a storm in the Gulf of Fonseca would delay the Maryland, Captain Kimberly said he expected to arrive at Corinto, Nicaragua today, according to schedule.

The Maryland anchored off Ampala
at 9 a. m. yesterday and Hoover stepped on the dock at 12:06 p. m.
to receive a demonstration from between four and five thousand persons.

The president-elect had lunch at the home of Jose Rosner, a prominent German merchant, as a guest of foreign minister Augusto Coello, who greeted Hoover on behalf of the president of Honduras, Miguel Paz Baraona.

After being presented with the key to the city, Hoover spoke of the perpetuation of peace as a mutual ideal of the North and South American continents.

"The blood of our forefathers,
pledges us to this common purpose," Hoover said.

Friendly relations were sought,
he said, through the peoples themselves
as well as through the governments.

The Hoovers left Ampala for La Union at 2:30 p. m., embarking in launches that met choppy seas in the bay.

The passage became extremely rough. The launches finally reached La Union at 4 o'clock. Heavy seas threatened to prevent the party from landing for a time and the boats were jockeyed twenty minutes before Hoover was able to set foot on the gangway. He narrowly missed being thrown into the water when a big wave swept under the launch.

Members of Salvador's cabinet officially welcomed Hoover. The plan to go to the main section of La Union,
two miles away, was abandoned
because of the late hour.

An official dinner was given at the railway house, attended by Hoover and others of his party and by the cabinet members and local authorities.

Emphasizing the message he delivered in his Ampala speech earlier in the day, Hoover said:

"I have already stated today that my purpose is to pay a call of friendship on behalf of the United States.
Relation between neighbors requires that nothing should be omitted to build up these contacts and that sentiment which creates understanding.
Out of such understanding comes mutual respect—The foundation of all sound international relations."

FOR DAMAGES

LOUIS M. STEVENS AND SON
ROBERT OF THIS CITY AS DEFENDANTS IN CASES.

Louis M. Stevens and son Robert were made the defendants in two heavy damage suits filed in the Putnam Circuit court Tuesday. The plaintiff is Archie J. Kahl of Danville, and the two suits, one for $5,000 damages
and one for $500 damages are the result of an automobile wreck in which the car of Mr. Stevens and that of Kahl figured in the town of Danville
on the evening of November 4.

Mr. Kahl alleges carelessness on the part of Robert Stevens who was driving the car, in that he failed to stop at the street intersection in which the Kahl car had the right of way. Kahl alleges he suffered several fractured ribs and was badly bruised and his body wrenched as a result of the accident.

For his personal injuries, he is seeking the $5000 damages and for damages to his automobile, he is asking $500.

In the wreck, Mrs. Stevens was badly hurt and was in the hospital here two weeks. Both cars were wrecked in the collision.

INDIANAPOLIS LIVESTOCK

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 27 (UP)—The hog market was strong on classes weighing more than 170 pounds
at the local Livestock Exchange today. Other classes were 25 cents lower. 170 to 300 pounders sold for $8.75. The top price paid was $8.85.
Receipts numbered 125000.

Cattle receipts were estimated at 1000 and calves at 600. The market—steers trended higher toward the close, she stock was steady and the vealers were higher. Steers were quoted at $9.50 to $15. Vealers brought $15.50 to $16.50 and calves $6.50 to $11.

Lambs were half a dollar higher.

MASONIC NOTICE

IS THERE NO OTHER WAY?

This question was suggested by a conversation heard in a store lately, concerning a valued pet cat, which had been rescued the night before,
from a student who had chased it across the owners front porch to the door of the home.

It seems to be a time honored custom for university students, at certain times of the year, to invade people's premises and take their cats. I suppose this is put in the class—by some, with the robbing of orchards or melon patches, it belongs with the indiscriminate poisoning of valuable dogs, for if you stop to think, most people keep cats because of their value as raters of for sentimental reasons, very many of these "harmless necessary" cats are pets of children, old folks or invalids, and their disappearing causes grief and loss and hence it is cruel. I am not pleading because of the stolen cats. I am protesting against a custom that causes loss and mental distress to the owners.

To have a chair stolen from my porch or even a few spoons from my table would be annoying, but they could be replaced. Pets are different.
Many noted persons have not been above a deep affection for cats. Henrietta Romer of world wide fame,
achieved that fame for her paintings
of cats only, in speaking to a student of this custom, I said

GREENSBURG TOMORROW!

Well folks, now that the DePaul-Wabash football game is out of the way, maybe we can get down to business once more. It turned out just right though, didn't it?

Coch Bausman sent his Purple and Gray basketball team through a hard practice session yesterday. Wednesday evening the Tiger Cubs invade the stronghold of the Greensburg high school net team and we expect for will fly thick and fast.

Greensburg has a real squad. The boys down there have won three or four games so far this season by top-heavy scores.

Their coach is Frank Pruitt, who for several years turned out championship quintets up at Bainbridge. Pruitt has a pretty good idea of Greensburg's method of play and he will no doubt have his athletes drilled to stop Tobin and the rest of the Cubs.

However, Greensburg may have a splendid offense but we don't believe they have run up against a strong defense such as Bausman's proteges can muster. You've got to hand it to the Cub mentor when it comes to defense. Remember how his boys stopped Bainbridge in the sectional tourney last spring? We believe they will do the same thing with Greensburg tomorrow night.

BEAT GREENSBURG, CUBS!

The Greensburg aggregation will play a return game with Greensburg on the local gym floor on February 16.

Remember, if the Cubs should be defeated tomorrow we have a good alibi. It will be Greensburg's second tilt of the season and the fourth or fifth for Greensburg. You'll have to admit that experience counts for something whether the team be weak or strong.

Saturday, the first day of December, will also see the home town boys in action over at Attica. We haven't heard much from the Fountain county quintet as yet this fall but you may rest assured that the Red Ramblers always fight.

MAKE IT TWO STRAIGHT THIS WEEK, CUBS. KNOCK GREENSBURG AND ATTICA FOR A ROW.

We understand there is to be no official high school band here this winter. That is certainly too bad as music of this kind sure adds pep to a basketball game.

Some one told us today that no pep sessions were planned this season at the high school. If this is so, we believe a mistake is being made. There is nothing like a genuine old-fashioned pep session to work up interest and enthusiasm over any kind of athletic contest, especially basketball. We're for bigger and better pep sessions.

Honestly fans, we believe Greensburg high school is going to have a better quintet this winter than the team last year and that is saying a great deal. But just wait and see—the boys have got it in them and Bausman can develop basketball skill if anybody can.

County games carded for this week are:

Tuesday
Lyons at Cloverdale.
Wednesday
Ladoga at Roachdale.
Marshall at Russellville.
Fillmore at Belle Union.
Bainbridge at Roachdale.
Friday
Bainbridge at Delphi.

TUESDAY'S FIVE BEST RADIO FEATURES.

MOVIES

AT THE GRANADA
A novel plot idea and new story twists combine with an aggregation of favorite screen players to account for the excellent entertainment value of First National's lively comedy-drama offering at the Granada theater Wednesday and Thursday, "Heart to Heart."

Mary Astor, Lloyd Hughes and Louise Fazenda enact the featured roles. There are some excellent supporting players, too; notably Thelma Todd, Lucien Littlefield, Raymond McKean and Virginia Gray. Miss Todd is First National's promising new, blonde and pulchritudinous ingenue lead.

AT THE VONCASTLE
"Steamboat Bill Jr." called by many who have seen it, Buster Keaton's funniest comedy, will head the bill at the Voncastle Theater Wednesday and Thursday.

The frozen-faced funny man who gave us such farces as "College," "The General" and "Go West," now becomes the well-bred son of a burly Mississippi river boat captain. When things start going from bad to worse for the father, his "softer" son arrives on the scene. Bill Jr. doesn't exactly give dad any helping hand when he falls in love with the daughter of the rival captain, nor does he help to regain the business which the other has stolen from his father. However, a cyclone comes along and then Buster—but it doesn't require such imagination to think of the antics he indulges in!

Ernest Torrence, featured player in many films since "The Covered Wagon," won a juicy role when he was cast as Buster's he-man parent. It marks his first comedy characterization in many a day. Heading Keaton's supporting cast are Marion Byron, a pretty little newcomer; Tom Lewis, and Tom McGuire.

AT THE INDIANA
"Adoration" featuring beautiful Billie Dove is being shown at the Indiana theatre this week, together with Public stage show "Oh, Teacher," in which Charlie Davis becomes "Professor" Davis. The stage show is a John Murray Anderson production and one of the most colorful of his many contributions to Public entertainment.

Billie Dove is seen as a Russian princess in "Adoration," and she is surrounded by a cast of many screen notables, including Antonio Moreno, Lucy Dornan, Nicholas Soussanin, Nicholas Bela and Lucien Littlefield. Clorious days of romance in the glittering splendor of Russian aristocracy form the background for the earlier sequences of "Adoration." With the revolution comes the shattering of the nobility and the rulers and their servants moved to Paris, the servants becoming prosperous, the rulers becoming servants.

Charlie Davis and his band contribute an important feature to "Oh, Teacher," the stage show. Phil and Harry, the two bad boys, Ray Bolger, the rubber-lass comic; Helen Kennedy personality singer Virginia Ray, singer Andrew and Louise Carr, two youthful dancers, Lucien LaRue, singer, Laura Lee, tiny "blues" singer and the Conner Sisters, and the pair of attractive girl singers.

IN MEMORY

In loving remembrance of John W. Cox, who passed away Nov. 27, 1925. When the evening shadows gather, And we are thinking of the past, In our memory comes a picture, Which shall forever last. We see the old home fire-side, And father, dear is there, With his face so bright and sunny, Sitting in his easy chair. But we know that we are dreaming For three years ago today, Death took our darling father, To his home so far away. Our hearts are sad and lonely, Since father went away, But we hope and trust that some day On that bright and blissful shore, We shall meet him and all our loved ones. To part from them no more, Sadly missed by wife and family.

GOLDEN RULE SUNDAY

Did you know that Golden Rule Sunday is to be observed December 2, 1928? This is the day that has been set aside for its observance. This will, in all probability, be the last time that you, the people of Greencastle, will be called upon to make your contributions to help the Near East Orphans.

After the war, the unbroken families returned to the occupations that they had had prior to the war. But what of the 132,552 children that were orphaned by it? The people of the United States have been liberal in the past in donating to this work.

cause. "The Spirit of Golden Rule that led us to save the lives of these children demands that we continue to supply their everyday needs until they are ready for self-support."

The first Sunday in the month of December has come to be recognized as International Golden Rule Sunday. Last year people in fifty different countries observed this day. This Sunday will be the sixth annual observance in the behalf of the Near East orphans.

For the past twelve years the Near East has been the means through which the Golden Rule Spirit has manifested itself to the people of the Near East. It has kept life in at least 1,500,000 people.

"Practical help," President Coolidge says, "is the best expression of our friendship." It can be extended to those in distant lands through our money which has no geographical boundaries.

Any gift to this worthy cause be welcomed. $5 furnishes food clothing for one month; $10 a year. $100 means full care and living for a year.

"THE SINGING FOOL," starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Al Stone, singing scater at Blackie Joe's New York night club, wins fame as a composer of popular songs. He marries Molly Winton, a ballad singer and makes her famous, too. Molly and Al have a baby, Junior, whom Al adores. When Junior is about two years old Molly becomes romantically interested in John Perry, Al's best friend. On New Year's Eve Al rushes home from the Club Bombo, where he is part owner and master of ceremonies, to find that Molly has eloped with Perry, taking Junior. Al is staggered by the cruel blow. Next morning he visits Marcus, producer of the revue in which Molly appeared, in search of information.

CHAPTER XVIII
Marcus handed Al a tiny marked paragraph from the theatrical column of a morning paper. It read: "Miss Molly Winton, headliner in The Merry-Go-Rounders, the most popular Marcus review of the season, has left the cast temporarily for a much-needed rest. Her place will be taken by her understudy, Suzanne Eastman."

"Temporarily?" exclaimed Al.

"Well, we just phrased it that way in case she should happen to come back. What's the meaning of all this, Al?"

Al stared hard at Marcus. Should he tell Marcus the truth, or should he cover up? It was apparent that Marcus knew nothing of Molly's whereabouts—and that was what Al had come to find out.

"Nothing," answered the young song-writer. "It's just as she says—she's tired out."

Marcus leaned back in his chair, studying Al's face carefully.

"Boy, you're holding back on this. I can tell from your expression that she's done something to you too. Has she—has she ditched you?"

"I didn't say that."

"I know you didn't, but—your eyes say it. You look as if you hadn't slept for six months."

Al felt himself sagging, but he suddenly stiffened and exclaimed vehemently:

"Listen, Marcus, don't give me away on this. It would make scandal and I don't want publicity. I want to work it out my own way. But—Molly has left me."

"Phew! I'll be mum—but when, why?"

"Last night—with John Perry. Left a note. She took Junior."

Marcus's face softened in sympathy for this stricken man. Here stood his best song-writer, the boy he had discovered and made famous, the lines of his face sharply etched by pain. Al seemed to have aged overnight.

The producer jumped up, ran around the table, put his arm about Al's shoulders.

"Don't let it throw you! It's a tough break, but you were bound to get it some day from that girl."

"Yes, I know it—now!" Al answered bitterly. "But did you see it coming?"

The producer nodded. "Do you remember that night down at Blackie Joe's three years ago—when you insisted that if I bought your song I'd have to give you a sweetie, Molly, a good revue job too? I took a long look at Molly and—I decided she was a cheater. . . . Then, when John Perry came along I saw a few things. But I thought it might blow over—there was no use warning you. You loved her too much."

"I loved her too much, that's true," admitted Al. "I trusted her completely, and I trusted John Perry, too. I'd like to get that snake alone just once!"

"Again the feeling of rage returned to Al. Marcus's grip tightened on his shoulder.

"Steady, Al. You don't win this battle that way. Let her go—for get her."

"It's easier to say than to do, Marcus. Besides, she's taken my boy, Junior. That's what hurts most."

"I know, I know," Marcus gently led Al toward a chair. "Here, sit down, pull yourself together. And have a shot of Scotch."

The days passed like years, until a week was gone. But still there was no trace of Molly and Junior, and no word from them. Somehow, Al managed to live through those terrible days of futile waiting, but he was unable to continue his song-writing, unable to fill his post as master of ceremonies at the Club Bombo.

At the end of the week he came to a sudden decision. He approached Billy Cline, his business partner at the Bombo, for a conference. They sat in the office one afternoon above the ballroom of the Bombo.

"Billy," Al began doggedly, "I can't go on with this. You know why. I can't appear before that crowd downstairs and go through with my wise-cracking routine. So I might as well get out, bag and baggage."

"Sellout, you mean?" questioned his partner.

"Yes, just that. I want you to buy my interest and I'll disappear. I'm through with Broadway—the whole life."

"Don't say that, Al," countered Billy. "You've got a thousand more songs in you—every one a hit."

"No," Al shook his head. "It's the end of all that sort of thing."

His partner hesitated. "Well, Al, of course I'll buy your share in the club, but the place won't be the same without you."

"I suppose that's true, Bill, but my heart isn't in it. You've got to feel gay to be gay—that is, consistently. I thought I could work through this thing, but I can't, so—it's curtains."

Billy Cline studied Al's face just as Marcus had done, trying to think of some way his friend's problem might be solved. But he ended by making a gesture of acquiescence to Al's proposal. Cline knew in his heart that Al was right about himself—a man can't write songs or carry on in the night club racket unless he can amuse the crowd. And Al's face showed he just couldn't. Cline rose.

"All right, Al. I'll get the books and we'll have an accounting."

As Cline walked away Al picked up a newspaper that an office boy had just left on a nearby chair. He turned it over and—starting at him from the front page was a large photograph of Molly. The words he read beneath that smiling photo horrified him.

Molly's hard eyes in the newspaper reproduction seemed fixed on Al in cynical and cruel triumph.

In a two-column box he read the "Hinterland" at her suite at the Baltimore today, prior to sailing on the "De France," Molly Winton, celebrated songstress and late star of "The Merry-Go-Rounders," confirmed the rumor that she is contemplating a Paris divorce from her husband, Al Stone, song-writer and Broadway's favorite master of ceremonies.

That one sentence was enough: Al dropped the paper and jumped up just as Billy Cline returned with the Club Bombo account books.

"What's the matter, Al?" cried his partner, for Al's face was ashen.

"Read this," Al snatched up the paper. "Molly's sailing today for Europe, taking Junior. It means I may never see my boy again! For all I know, they're on the high seas now!"

Cline scanned the article rapidly, but Al interrupted him.

"Have they sailed yet?" he cried in tones of anguish. "Have they taken Junior away without a word?" Cline turned quickly to the shipping news, while Al stood glancing over his shoulder. Down the column their eyes traveled to the part marked "Sailings Today." And then—"De France," 4 P. M. Cline looked at his watch.

"It's three now, Al. You might be able to stop them."

"You mean legally—the police."

"There's just a chance."

"I won't do that. I have my reasons. But I must see Junior before he leaves—you don't know what he means to me, Billy!"

Al grabbed up the phone from Cline's desk and put in a call for the Baltimore.

"I'd like to speak to Mrs. Al Stone."

Molly was superintending the packing of her bags when the phone rang. Junior was playing in the adjoining room of the suite, and John Perry, who had just arrived, was reclining in an easy chair near Molly, smoking a cigarette, his hat and stick beside him. The maid put down an armful of Molly's clothes and moved toward the phone.

TO CARE FOR EX-SERVICE MEN
INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 21 (UP)—Fred Weickling, Bluffton, new state commander of the American Legion, has announced that two major projects of the Legion in Indiana this year will be the establishment of a government hospital in the state to care for 452 Hoosier ex-service men now being cared for outside the state, and the obtaining of adequate support for the state Soldiers and Sailors Orphan's Home at Knightstown.

"We don't intend to rest until the Government hospital is obtained," Weickling said, "and we expect to put up the usual battle with the legislature next year to obtain funds for the Orphan's Home."

Weickling declared the Knightstown home must have some more cottages and a power and heating plant as well year will be the establishment of a

Treatment Of New Konjola Banished Stomach Trouble

All Symptoms Yield Quickly To The Powers of Master Medicine: Endorses It To Everyone.

MR. FRANK BROWN

How Konjola triumphs in stubborn cases that have resisted and defied every treatment and medicine tried, is demonstrated in the case of Mr. Frank Brown, R. R. No. 2, Box 62, Kokomo, Indiana, who pays this glowing tribute to the master medicine for stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for rheumatism and nervousness:

"It is a pleasure to endorse Konjola. For a year my stomach trouble resisted every treatment. Indigestion grew worse, and I was so weak and nervous I could not sleep. All having failed me, I feared that I would have to go through life sick and miserable. A friend, realizing that I needed help badly, recommended Konjola. What a happy surprise was in store for me! Today I can eat anything, my nerves are calm, I sleep well and am regaining my lost weight and strength rapidly. My gratitude for Konjola is boundless,
